Executive Summary

This deliverable outlines the current status of dissemination activities following the conclusion of the CAREPATH clinical investigation. With the study phase now completed and the data fully analysed, the consortium has initiated the dissemination of results through various scientific and professional channels.

Efforts are underway to ensure that the findings reach relevant stakeholders, including the research community, healthcare professionals, and policy-makers. A number of publications are in preparation, and additional outputs are expected to be submitted for peer review in the coming months. These will address key aspects of the CAREPATH platform, including its clinical impact, usability, and potential for integration into existing care pathways.
